

Red Ball Drills® are being used extensively by the nation's leading property management firms. The increased safety demands and insurance impact from training has led some companies to cover multiple buildings, and multiple markets, after staff and manager feedback from the initial drills.

“With Red Ball Drills, we never frightened any of our tenants, staff, or guests – and we’re much more prepared to react now if a real security threat materializes on one of our properties.”

- Portfolio Manager, Major National Property Management Firm

Red Ball Drills® are instrumental in allowing safety and security operations to start changing the conversation from “response” to “process” – with dramatic effect:

- Allows integration and assessment of active shooter preparations -- across multiple diverse tenants
- Provides for conducting real-time workplace violence preparedness, and event mitigation scenarios
- Creates an environment for observing conduct in the scenarios in ‘real-time’ while the workday is underway
- Prompts reassessment of doors, entryways, connectors and other access points with key staff and management

Our Safety, Communication, Control model differs from “Run, Hide, Fight” exercises in very fundamental ways.

Other programs claim to be ‘customized’ for each client, but instead they focus on their own methodology. Red Ball Drills® are a truly different exercise – a location and site-specific preparation drill – fully scenario-driven by you!

In the actual running of any Red Ball Drills® there are never any simulated firearms, weapons, fakes, or trauma-inducing events. The revolutionary approach we bring is all about intelligent layers of learning and serious discussion among the participants and the stakeholders. Call or visit us online to find out more.

